

A Fresh Approach

UpsideLive is the definitive Software as a Service (SaaS) Contract Lifecycle Management solution designed for small and medium enterprises (SME) as well as larger companies. With all the vital features typically offered only to enterprise-sized companies, UpsideLive provides comprehensive contract management with a user-friendly interface. In the current marketplace, it is essential to ensure contracts are protecting the business and not exposing it to unnecessary risks. UpsideLive's robust application enables users to create and manage contracts online while ensuring full compliance to regulations.

Why Contract Management?

All businesses revolve around contracts, whether it is a simple employee contract or a 3rd party paper with multiple vendors. Contracts specify terms of agreements, set out the expectations of the contracting parties, and lay the groundwork for dispute resolution. Despite contracts being such an integral part of a business, many organizations continue to manage them on an ad-hoc basis and are not fully aware of the status of their contracts. The numerous benefits of using Software as a Service (SaaS) solution such as UpsideLive can drastically impact and improve an organization's bottom line.

Increase Visibility

Manage contracts with UpsideLive to be in command of the contracting process and leverage the benefits offered by the central repository. Full visibility enhances an organization's ability to manage existing and future commitments, as well as identify key opportunities. Keep stakeholders informed about key events and improve company-wide communications.

Standardize Contracts

A template-based contract creation process such as UpsideLive's allows an organization to standardize contracts within all departments and fields. As a result, required terms and conditions are included, yet still allow the contract creator to enhance the contract by adding or deleting extra terms as required. The step-by-step template feature drastically cuts down on contract creation time.

Why Software as a Service (SaaS)?

UpsideLive is Software as a Service (SaaS), delivered as a completely web-based solution which offers rapid deployment in a secure environment. SaaS is an economical way for businesses to obtain similar benefits of commercially licensed, internally operated software minus the complexity and high costs.

The 5 C's

Effectively manage your contracts using UpsideLive's 5 step process:

Create

Create the building blocks of your business by using the "one-click" application model. Reduce cycle time by creating contracts online.

Collaborate

Collaborate with all users online to create and improve contracts. Work on contracts with all parties involved (internal and external) to get it just right.

Centralize

Get 24/7 access to contracts in the central repository. Improve visibility into commitments and share important information to all stakeholders.

Control

Ensure contracts meet regulations, adhere to compliance items, and minimize risk. Monitor contract statuses and milestones.

Cultivate

Enhance business relationships with suppliers, vendors and customers by improving renewal rates.

Easy Start-up

With UpsideLive, the need to invest upfront in costly software or hardware is eliminated. SaaS offers the advantage of flexibility, less maintenance and centralized updates. The shift to a SaaS Contract Management solution is a direct reflection of the change in the business requirements demanded by clients. UpsideLive helps you stay flexible and responsive in today's fast-paced and dynamic business environment.

Anytime, Anywhere

UpsideLive provides organizations secure access to contract data anytime, anywhere. Requiring only an internet connection and a standard web browser, UpsideLive users are able to retrieve vital information regardless of where they are. On a business trip? Unable to make it into the office? Working from home? UpsideLive allows organizations to be proactive and keep on top of contract details at all times.
